Shooting Affray at Greenfield Which Likely to Result in Murder.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. GREENFIELD, July 29. - To-day, at 1 o'clock, a shooting affray, which will probably result fatal to one of the parties, occurred at Ed Kinder's livery stable. For the past two weeks there has been bad blood between Al Dailey, a bartender at David Fair's saloon, and Barney Sharpe, a gas-well contractor. During a quarrel, some days ago, Sharpe threatened to shoot Dailey and applied a number of abusive epithets. To-day Dailey went to the livery stable where Sharpe was, and there the quarrel was resumed. At this time Sharpe seemed to wish to avoid serious trouble, but both had revolvers-Sharpe one of thirty-two calibre, and Dailey one of thirtyeight calibre-and seemed prepared for business. Upon Dailey calling Sharpe an opprobious name, the latter drew his revolver, and Dailey also drew his. The bystanders say that it is hard to say which fired the first shot, as they were both very close together. Several shots were exchanged and the men clinched and shot at short range. Sharpe shot Dailey on the back of the head, but so high up that the ball glanced off, and another shot glanced from Dailey's right shoulder-blade. Neither wound is serious. While still clinched. Dailey pressed his pistol to the back of Sharpe's head and fired. The ball entered the head at the base of the brain, and Drs. W. R. King and N. P. Howard have been unable to locate it. The probabilities are that Sharpe will die. The preliminary exthat Sharpe will die. The preliminary examination has not been completed, and it is not known whether Dailey will be admitted to bail or not.

Several years ago Dailey was shot in the forehead by a young man named Meek, who, supposing he had killed him, turned the pistol and shot himself in the temple, and expired soon after. The ball, how-ever, in Dailey's case, glanced, and did not penetrate deep enough to kill him, but remains in his head to this day. Dailey has been a bartender for a number of years. Barney Sharpe is a Virginian, but came here from Edinburg, last August, with Samuel Thompson, and the two have been engaged in drilling gas wells in this county since that time, under the firm name of Thompson & Sharpe.

Had Better Deposited His Money.

MARTINSVILLE, July 29 .- A very mysterious complication is reported from the Greene edge of Sullivan county. Jacob Martin, a substantial and well-to-do farmer, belongs to that class who do not believe in banks, but instead kept his money, something like $3,500, secreted in his house. Some time ago his wife died, after a protracted sickness, during which she was waited upon by her sister, a Mrs. Dsan. After the burial of his wife Martin went to the hiding-place of his money to get a small amount to pay funeral expenses, and was horrified to find it missing. He at once suspected his sister-in-law, and accused her of taking his money, but she denied all knowledge of it, and at the same time requested Martin to say nothing about the missing money and his suspicions on account of her daughter, a beautiful girl of sixteen. Mr. Martin was so wrapped up in his niece that he complied with the request, but kept a close watch over the expenditures of the Deans. learned that Dean was wanting to buy a farm, and would pay cash for one. He also learned that the township assessor had told that Dean's wife had a considerable sum of money, but it had not been given in for taxation. A few days ago Mrs. Dean went to Sullivan, taking with her a bed-quilt, and going to a law-yer's office, sent for George R. Dutton, cashier of the Sullivan Bank. On his arrival the quilt was ripped open, and he found sewed between the top and lining about $1.300 in bills. Aftermaking a memorandum of the number and character of the bills, he was requested to make a special deposit of the money in the name of Amanda Dean. Learning of the above facts, Mr. Martin went to Sullivan, and filing an indemnity bond, got possession of the money. Mrs. Dean now claims that her sister gave her the money deposited in bank a short time before her death; that she had never opened the quilt, and did not know how much money was hidden in it. She further states that she believes she is entitled to the money in payment for months and months of attention to her sister during her sickness.

The Australian System at Jeffersonville. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

JEFFERSONVILLE, July 29 .- The Australian system of voting was tested in Jeffersonville to-day, and the result was in every way satisfactory to all but the "bum" element, heretofore so conspicuous at elections, but at this one not seen after the first hour's voting. The voter enters a chute, upon each side of which is stretched a rope, to prevent any one from approaching. He goes into the voting-room and gives his name to a clerk for enrollment. He is then furnished with a ticket. with the names of the candidates printed thereon. The voter is also supplied with a stamp like an "X," with which and the ticket he enters a booth, or private room, where he places an impression of the stamp at the left of the candidate's name for whom he wishes to vote. He then folds the ticket, returns it to the inspectors, who, after ascertaining that the initials of the polling clerk's name are exposed to view, as required by law, deposite the ticket in the ballot-box. The voter then leaves the reom, and is not permitted to approach within fifty feet of the polls again during the election.

The election to-day was for the purpose of choosing a successor to the late city clerk. S. H. Ault, the candidates being Hugo Alben (Democrat) and E. G. Neild (Republican), and also a councilman from the Fifth ward. Alben was elected by a greatly reduced majority. Heidenrich, Democratic candidate for Council, was elected without Delaware County Teachers' Institute.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, July 29 .- The Delaware county teachers' institute began, in Music Hall, yesterday morning. After devotional exercises by Rev. C. U. Wade the regular lessons were begun. The first was given by President Parsons, of the State Normal School, on the subject "Science of Education." This was followed by a lesson on educational psychology, by Prof. R. G. Boone, of Indiana University. An excellent paper on "Loyalty to School" was read by D. A. Lambert and brought forth a spirited discussion by the teachers. Besides the regular lessons by Professors Boone and Parsons a good paper was read on "How to Teach Patriotism in the School." To-day the exercises consisted of music and an interesting talk by Professor Parsons, in which he set forth plainly the views of the atheist, the agnostic, the materialist, the deist and the Christian theist. The forenoon lessons were given on the subjects of "Mental Science," by W. W. Parsons, and "Science of Education," by R. G. Boone.
A fine paper was read by Frances Darracott on "The Moral Development of the Child."

Senatorial Convention. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

BLUFFTON, July 26 .- The joint Republican senatorial and judicial convention of Huntington and Wells county convened at Warren Saturday. The meeting was enthusiastic and largely attended by those eager to see Republican success this fall in this State. After the selection of a chairman and secretary was made, Hugh Alexander, a farmer of Jackson township, this county, was placed in nomination for Joins

Senator and was unanimously chosen as the candidate for that position. George Jopst, an attorney of Huntington, was nominated for the place of prosecuting attorney. Mr. Alexander is a successful and practical farmer and is very popular with the masses. In 1884 he was elected trustee of Jackson township, which was then Democratic by about 130 majority. In 1886 he again run on the Republican ticket and was re-elected. ed, much to the discomfort of the Democracy of the county. The Republicans are earnest and are making a grand effort for Republican supremacy in the State Legis-

Relieved of His Command.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. FORT WAYNE, July 29 .- A slight sensation has developed in local military circles. Will Peltier, captain of the Fort Wayne Rifles, has been relieved of his command by Adjutant-general Ruckle, of Indianapolis, for breach of military discipline, and Lieutenant Bulger has been placed in temporary command of the company. It appears that Captain Peltier has neglected to send in his monthly report, and also has failed to drill the company in anticipation of next week's encampment at South Bend. Capt. Peltier has been rusticating at Rome City for the past six weeks, and company drill lagged while the commander fished. Last evening the Captain returned and turned over the command of his troop to Lieutenant Bulger. Mr. Peltier has engaged coun-sel to present his case before a court-mar-tial which will be held at South Bend. It is thought he will be restored to his command, as he is very popular with his men, and his offense of discipline is very trivial.

Soldiers' Reunion at Anderson.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. ANDERSON, July 29.-The soldiers of Blackford, Grant, Delaware and Madison counties began a three days' reunion at the fair grounds in this city to-day, with large attendance. It is the fifth annual reunion of the veterans of these counties, and a large number are coming in on every train. Governor Hovey is expected to-night. Great preparations are being made for the sham battle that is to be fought on Thursday under command of General Doxey, of the Union forces, and General Terhune, of the confederates. Eight hundred stands of arms, artillery and other munitions of war are on the field. The colored quartet of this city helped to entertain the soldiers to-night with plantation

An Aged Man Murdered.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MARION, July 29 .- A brutal assault that will probably end in a murder was perpetrated last night by B. F. Hite, a saloonkeeper, on Abram Terhune, a brick-mason, sixty-three years old. Hite and his victim met in McClury Mike's saloon, and had some words. Hite was put out, and, going around to a side door, met Terhune, who was coming out, and struck him with a slungshot. The old man has since been unconscious, and his physician states tonight that he cannot recover. An hour later Hite was arrested by Marshal Can-ady and placed in jail. The prisoner is a notorious and desperate character.

Train-Robber's Victim Identified. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

BLOOMINGTON, July 29 .- About the middle of June a train robbery took place on the Cotton Belt railway, near Texarkana, and two men lost their lives, one a train robber and the other a passenger on that train, who was reported at the time as unknown. It now transpires that the unknown was Michael Hackett, of this city. He was proprietor of a meat market.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. Paris, July 29 .- Ed Norris, a young man twenty-eight years old, who has served four years in the Joliet penitentiary for forgery, was arrested at Scottland, in this county, yesterday, and brought to this city and lodged in jail, charged with forging a note for $150 on James Scott, a wealthy farmer of this county.

Brief Mention. Walter Fields, a well-known citizen of Downs, McLean county, was fatally injured by being kicked by a mule. The Morning Monitor, a daily, which has struggled along for the last six months in who have been out for some weeks. Trouble is looked for upon their arrival. The dead body of Jacob Phillips, a young farmer, was found near Smithton Sunday.

He had placed the muzzle of his rifle against his forehead and pulled the trigger with his toes, sending the bullet into his brain. He was unmarried, thirty years old, and no cause is known for the act.

NEBRASKA INDEPENDENTS.

Various Secret Societies Start Out to Reform the World of Politics.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 29 .- The People's Independent party of Nebraska met in State convention in this city to-day. Nearly every county in the State is represented, and the gathering comprises something over 900 delegates, most of whom are present. Of these the members of the Farmers' Alliance predominate, with a good following of the Grange, the balance being the Knights of Labor and Union Labor adherents. Ex-Senator Van Wyck and Jay Burrows are looked upon as the leaders of the Alliance movement, while the Knights of Labor find a champion in the person of ex-Gov. David Butler, of Pawnee county. Between Burrows and Butler a bitter enmity exists. Allen Root was made chairman. An attempt to adopt the standing platform of the Farmers' Alliance as the platform of the convention proved a failure. The platform declares for free coinage and greenbacks, a law to limit land owership and prohibit alien ownership; that all railroad are robbers; that all taxation should be readjusted; that the government should own the railroads and telegraphs; that service pensions should be granted, and that eight hours should constitute a day's

Nominations for Governor having been declared in order, George A. Abbott, C. H. Van Wyck, of Otoe county, and J. H. Powers, of Hitchcock county, were placed in nomination, as were also Dr. A. Coleman, of Polk, and Guy C. Barnum, of Platte. The vote resulted as follows: Powers, 465; Van Wyck, 327; Coleman, 46; Barnum, 25, The result caused much enthusiasm and not a little excitement. Mr. Powers advanced to the stage, and thanked the convention be-comingly for the honor conferred, after which an adjournment was taken until 9

Tennessee Republicans. NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 29 .- The Republican State convention meets in this city at noon to-morrow, and will be largely attended. The leaders are already on the ground, and the bulk of the delegates will arrive to-night and on the early trains tomorrow. The two questions of greatest interest will be the indorsement of the national administration and the federal election bill. It is generally conceded that Lewis Baxter, of this city, will be nomi-nated for Governor. Mr. Baxter is a son of the late John Baxter, United States District Judge for this circuit, and the son-inlaw of Dr. Thomas W. Evans, of New York city. He is a young man of wealth and social standing in the State, the president of the Commercial Club of this city, and ranks high as a successful business man. The convention to-day indorsed the Lodge election bill.

New York Republican Clubs NEW YORK, July 29 .- The executive committee of the Republican State League decided at its meeting at the Fifth-avenue Hotel this afternoon to call a meeting of the State convention at Music Hall, Saratoga, on Sept. 4. A resolution was also adopted that the committee indorse the principles embodied in the federal election bill, and urge its speedy passage. John I. Davenport and A. B. Humphrey, of the National League, were present, and talked in favor of the resolution.

North Dakota Republicans. GRAND FORKS, N. D. July 22.-The second Republican State convention in North Dakota began this afternoon. It was a little after 2 o'clock when Chairman Geary, of the State central committee, called the convention to order. P. J. McCumber was elected temporary chairman. Committees on credentials and resolutions were appointed, and the convention took a recess until to-morrow.

SITE FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR. How the Exhibits Will Be Divided Between

Lake Front and Jackson Park. CHICAGO, July 29.—The directors of the world's fair have prepared a statement of the manner in which it is proposed to divide the exhibits between the lake front and Jackson Park, in response to a request from the State Legislature to that end. They say they intend to put in Jackson Park the agricultural display in all its divisions, including products of the soil, live stock and food products, machinery of Hon. P. S. Kennedy has been employed | all sorts, the forestry exhibit, the railroad display, electrical appliances, printing exhibit, glass-making and pottery exhibits, and ascertain what can be done in regard | mineral display, architecture and engineering, cotton and woolen-mills and their manufactures, military and sporting weapons, marine display, etc. It is in-tended that this portion of the exhibition shall equal in interest that on the lake front. On the latter it is proposed to lo-cate the art building, the decorative art and art manufacture building, Turkish. Indian and Egyptian villages, government departmental exhibits, etc.

> In the Illinois Legislature. SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 29.—The Senate spent the entire morning session in discussing and acting on various amendments and substitutes for the proposed world's fair constitutional amendments, and, after adopting a sustitute which made merely verbal changes, took a recess. In the House, this morning, the response of the Chicago world's fair directors to the request of the House for information in regard to the double site was read and referred to a joint committee. A resolution heretofore introduced, that it be the sense of the House that the world's fair should be held on a single site, came up as a special order. An amendment was introduced that it be the sense of the House that Garfield Park or some other West-side locality should be selected as this single site, but it was promptly laid upon the table. The following resolution was introduced and passed: Resolved. That it is the deliberate judgment of the House that we have no right or power to make or alter the site of the world's Columbian exposition as fixed or determined upon by the national commission and the local directors. The House then adjourned until 2 o'clock

The Senate this afternoon adopted the joint resolution providing for an amendment to the State Constitution permitting the city of Chicago to increase its limit of indebtedness so as to issue $5,000,000 of bonds in aid of the world's fair. In the House the resolution failed of the necessary two-thirds majority, but the vote was reconsidered, and the resolution will be taken up again to-morrow. A number of members opposed the resolution on the ground that it was being rushed through too hastily, not having yet been printed for examination.

Silver and Tea. CHICAGO, July 29.-Ernest Theodore, a prominent tea importer from Han Row. China, arrived in this city yesterday. Speaking of the tea commerce, Mr. Theodore said: "The recent passage of the silver bill has raised the price of tea 10 per cent. We make all our payments in silver out there, little gold being used. The purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver a month by your government is equivalent to taking out of the market just so much that was hitherto available. Eastern markets have felt this influence, and silver in London has raised in price. The tea crop in China is heavy this year, and of prime quality." Factory Closed by Typhoid.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 29.—Minnie Brown and Emma Lutz, employes of Rose Bros. & Hartman's umbrella factory, died yesterday from typhoid fever, making five fatal cases thus far. Forty others out of the 235 employes are more or less ill with the fever, some of them dangerously. The factory was closed yesterday by order of the board of health.

MRS. BONES'S HEART.

Successful Efforts of a Dakota Woman to Save a Neighbor from Hydrophobia.

CHICAGO, July 29 .- A little woman from South Dakota is at the Palmer House intent on saving a helpless Norwegian from a horrible death. Manager Townsend has already started the kindness with which Chicago will undoubtedly receive her by giving her a temporary home until her work is accomplished.

A year ago the beautiful six-year-old daughter of Gilbert Halter, a worthy Norwegian farmer of Webster, S. D., was attacked by a mad dog. In trying to save his child the father was bitten in the side and leg. Within six weeks the child died amid the frightful sufferings of the worst form of hydrophobia. Now the father is exease. Unless the best medical treatment is obtained for him it is but a question of a few weeks before he meets the fate of his child. In his trouble he applied to his neighbor, Mrs. Marrietta M. Bones, who is well known in the nonpartisan W. C. T. U., and was the secretary of the national convention of that organization in this city last November. She told him of the Pasteur theory as applied at the Rush Medical College, Chicago, but this seemed beyond his reach, for, to add to his misfortunes, a tornado had destroyed every vestige of his crops, leaving him without a dollar.

Mrs. Bones at once threw her heart into the work of rescuing him from death, and in twenty-four hours raised a sum sufficient for his immediate needs among the citizens of Webster, none of whom are wealthy, took the first train for Chicago, enlisted the services of Dr. Ragorio, and this afternoon, with tears in her eyes from pleasure at having accomplished so much of her selfimposed task, she telegraphed for the patient to come at once. He will probably arrive Thursday evening. The cost of his treatment and care here will, it is expected, be met by citizens of Chicago. Mrs. Bones will remain in Chicago the entire week to aid in bringing about the desired result.

Douglass Not a Murderer.

St. Louis, July 29 .- John H. Douglass, secretary of the Knapp-Stout Lumber Com-pany, arrested yesterday charged with killing Charles Dorst, an employe, who had inadvertently broken a board, was discharged, nothing developing at the inquest tending to connect him with the man's death. How Dorst received the blow which fractured his skull is yet a mystery. The inquest on the body of John Dost ended in a verdict that death was the "result of inflammation of the orain of unknown origin," there being no evidence of external violence. From the testimony it appears that Dost was employed at the Knapp-Stout lumber-yards. July 7 he dropped and broke a door-panel. Mr. Douglass, the treasurer of the company, pushed Dost and told him to go home. The evidence seemed to show that Mr. Douglass die not strike Dost in anger, and certainly did not hit him on the head; also, that Dost seemed sick and light-headed before the accident.

Texas Fever at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 29 .- Texas fever has made its appearance among the cows near the city limits, in a portion of the twenty-eighth ward, this city, and about twenty of them have died from the effects of that disease. Inspectors of the health department have made post-mortem examinations in several cases and pronounce the disease true Texas fever. The supposition is that the animals contracted at from refuse which dropped from railroad cars in which Texas cattle were being transferred into the city. The officers of the department say that the only means of preventing the disease from spreading to all of the cattle in the neighborhood is to shut them up until frost comes next fall.

THE DUTY OF VOTING.

A Suggestion That the Casting of a Ballot Be Made Obligatory on the Voter.

To the Editor of the Indianapolis Journal: The Hon. J. S. Clarkson, in his excellent letter in last Sunday's issue of the Journal, hinted at a subject which it is believed has hitherto escaped the attention of the authors of election laws, although it is of more importance than are many kindred subjects to which much time and space have been devoted by the Legislatures of most, if not all of the States of the Union. The subject alluded to is that of "the indifference of the American voters." The right of exercising the elective franchise is, by the express terms of the constitutions and laws of the United States, and of the various States, guaranteed to every citizen possessing certain prescribed qualifications, and the very fact that this, as an inalienable right, is guaranteed by the government to the citizen, and in the exercise whereof the citizen is protected and is free from arrest, imposes upon the citizen the imperative duty of exercising that right to the extent of participating in the election of every federal, State and local officer for for which he has a just right to vote. The legal voter who, on such occasions, from mere indifference, neglects to exercise his right as a voter and to discharge his duty as a citizen, is a po-litical deserter not only of his party but of his government, and his offense is as un-pardonable as is that of a guard or picket who sleeps at his post when an enemy is known to be near. The Constitution of In-diana declares that "all elections shall be free and equal;" the freedom therein guaranteed is that every voter shall be protected in the exercise of the right of voting; the equality demanded is that every voter shall participate in all elections. Thus the right or freedom guaranteed by the Constitution imposes on the voter the imperative duty of exercising the right. The State is entitled to an expression by the ballot of the opinion of every voter on any pending issue that may be submitted to the voter. The political questions with which the voters of to-day have to deal are so purely questions of political economy as to affect directly not only the welfare but a handsome lot. "Oh! yes," said the keeper, the perpetuity of the Republic, and there "they're all valuable dogs, of course. Peothe perpetuity of the Republic, and there cannot be found any neutral ground, certainly no ground on which any intelligent American voter can stand aloof, fold his hands and view with absolute indifference the waging of a contest wherein is involved, it may be, the very existence of the best government the world has ever known, and yet do his duty as a loyal, patriotic citizen. The expressed will of a majority of the voters, honestly and fairly ascertained, in an election wherein all the voters have participated, is the chief corner-stone upon which the temple of freedom has been reared, and every legal voter who neglects to discharge his duty of voting, by so much is the foundation of that temple weakened and by so much is the safety of the superstructure threatened. Apportionments for the purpose of official representation are based upon the voting population, and this fact alone renders it the absolute duty of every voter to participate in all elections. The federaland State constitutions and statutes guarantee, and, if invoked, will exted, to every voter such protection as will afford him absolute freedom in the expression of opinion through the medium of bailot. The voter who, through neglect, fails to vote, or who from indifference refrains from voting, should by proper legislation be made to forfeit and pay a penalty of sufficient sum to induce the now indifferent voter to do his duty toward his gov-ernment. A simple method by which this could be accomplished would be for the State, by appropriate legislation, to levy against each voter a specific penalty in the nature of a poll-tax for the exclusive benefit of the common-school fund, with the provision that the election board shall deiver to each voter, when he casts his ballot, a duly executed certificate of proper form, showing that he has voted, which certificate, if filed with the county treasurer of the county wherein the voter legally votes, should be accepted as a full and complete payment of said specific penalty or poll-tax. Thus voting could be rendered compulsory; but few men would forfeit the penalty which could be so easily saved. Then, too, would the indifferent voter look at the question differently, and what he now regards as a mere right would then be considered a duty. When viewed in the light of duty he would manifest a desire to discharge that duty intelligently with reference to the pending issues. Men who now regard themselves as too good to dabble in what they are pleased to call the dirty pool of politics would awaken to a sense of their duty as voters. Finding they must choose on which side of the balance they will cast their lot or pay a penalty for such failure, they would investigate the bearing and effect of pending issues. Having thus intelligently arrived at a conclusion, they would, by their ballots, give expression thereto, and the result would be that instead of no ballot the government would have the benefit of an honest and intelligent ballot. Once the American voter believes it to be his duty to vote, he can be relied upon to discharge that duty.

called reciprocity with Latin America, barring the items of wool and hides. Reciprocity with the wool pulled out and the hide skinned off its weltering form would be but a quivering and ghastly mockery.

As to the Pappenheims one thing is plain: the Prince Regent of Bavaria doesn't ap-prove of the marcanary exchange of titles for money. In this all good Republicans and Democrats will agree with him, whether they think, as he does, that the money is not worth the titles, or, as we do, that the titles and risk of unhappiness are not worth the money.

A DOCTOR FOR DOGS.

"Old Tray" Now Has a Hospital Where His Ills Are Attended To.

A reporter recently had his attention attracted in an uptown street by a gilt-lettered sign on a green ground, which informed the public that "Professor Blackburn, caninist," had his officers there. The reporter entered, and was greeted by a stout, good-locking man, whose right leg has been amptuated above the knee.

"Professor" Blackburn is an Englishman.

with a strong north-country dialect. "My business," he said, "is doctoring and caring for dogs. I board dogs for people who spend the summer in the country and who cannot take their pets with them. also cure dogs that suffer from distemper or other complaints. I teach dogs tricks for the house, and also train them so that they look sleek and healthy." In a lower floor is a room about 20 feet by 30, and around the walls on a platform are stalls or boxes filled with clean straw. "This room," said Mr. Blackburn, "is the dormitory where all the well dogs sleep. You see I keep them out in the yard in the daytime. If a dog is disposed to be cross I have a 'walk' for him alone, and he gets his exercise there. Now this room," and he led into another apartment, "is the hospital, although there are no patients in it now. My laboratory is upstairs. I am a veteri-nary surgeon, but a fondness for dogs made me devote myself to them. They need more care than a horse, and they appreciate a kindness quite as much. Not long ago a young man brought me a beautiful black setter, which he declared was cross and snappy. The dog had simply been overfed with cake, candy and milk. Well, I put her into the hospital, starved her for two days and then began feeding her on soft dog food. Two days later the poor animal was as kind as a kitten and as frisky as a yearling colt." In the yard back of the house were twenty canine boarders enjoying after-din-ner naps under the shade of big peach and apple trees. In the kennel were three Gordon setters, a Laverack, a handsome liver and white pointer, two Newfoundlands, a huge mastiff, several fox-terriers and three or four toy-terriers and Skyes. They were curs, and indeed I wouldn't take mongrels in. A man can't do anything with a cur. A cur dog won't learn even the most simple point of politeness. But you can teach a good dog to do anything. Pointers and setters are the most intelligent; then come spaniels, poodles, Newfoundlands, fox-terriers, toy-terriers and mastiffs. I had a setter once that could play euchre, and he was an excellent field dog, too. "How are dogs taught tricks? Oh, it is very simple if the teacher is kind and patient. A dog must be shown what he is to do, and then be made to do it. Not once or twice, but many times and for many days. When he has that trick learned you teach him another and another, and so on. But it takes patience. A rough and quick-tempered man will never succeed in teaching a dog. Some dogs learn tricks unconsciously. I know one in particular which won't eat meat on Friday, or, for the matter of that, on any other day if you yell 'Friday' at him. It seems that one Friday the owner saw the dog with a piece of meat in its mouth, and, for a joke, he took it away and yelled 'Friday.' That was sufficient. You might think this a dog story, but it is true, and you can test it for yourself if you go and you can test it for yourself if you go and you can test it for yourself if you go up to McKeon's saloon when Jim McCloskey, the owner is there." A Little Child's Letter.

Commercial Gazette. In the Cincinnati postoffice yesterday, in the general deposit of mail gathered at noon, was a much-tumbled and tear-stained postal-card. The writing upon it was in a child's hand, trembling and uncertain. The address was "My dear mama in heven."

The letter was as as follows: dear mamma-I am so lonesome sins you went to heven, i want to go to you. the time seems so long. you said i could come to you. Mrs. Clarke is kind to me but she is not like you. you sho this to God and send for me sure, my arm hurts me so and you sad it would be well in heaven. i send you a kiss, from me, little Cold indeed must be the heart that does not moisten the eye that looks upon that touching and pathetic letter, with its baby love and unquestioning faith, and illustration of the love between child and mother that passeth understanding. The whole world of pathos is in the child cry. "Mrs. Clarke is kind to me, but she is not like you." No, little one, nobody could be to you what your mother was. Said Postmaster Riley: "I wish I could learn who the writer is. It is one of the most touching appeals I have ever seen. Evidently she is an orphan, for she speaks of Mrs. Clarke; and she must be a sufferer, for she speaks of her arm hurting her so. The little thing has been pining for her mother, and perhaps some one has told her to write, or may be it has been an in-spiration of her own—quite likely. It would seem that there ought to be some reply to that. It certainly is very touching." Peranswered, that the mother may "sho this to God" and send for her, and the mother's arms close around her once more for all

London World. What struck one most in the abbey was the majestic a pearance of the bride as she walked down the nave after the service and her being so much taller than Mr. Stanley, and his lameness made him look even shorter than he was in reality. The little brides-maids and page looked most bewitching, and came in for a great deal of attention.
